“The Bad Breath Fixer”

Johnny was the nicest boy you would ever want to meet. He was polite. He was kind. He was friendly. He eagerly shared his toys.

Johnny smiled and laughed a lot. Girls and boys liked to play with him. Adults always said nice things about him.

Besides being about the best “best friend” that anyone could be, Johnny was just like you and me...

He liked to play when it was time to play. He liked to eat his favorite foods when it was time to eat. He was tired when it was time to sleep. And Johnny sometimes even had to run to the bathroom when it was time to pee – just like you and me!

Every night, he took a bath so he was always nice and clean. And he loved to brush his teeth to give them a shiny gleam.

So, one day it just did not seem fair that Johnny awoke to a smell of foul air...

His nose could not lie. You have bad breath, it told him. “But I brushed my teeth really well,” he thought. He did not want his parents to scold him!

He ran to his mother and let out a cry, “Mommy, I brushed my teeth, but my mouth is so dry! It smells so bad! I don’t know why!”

His mother was surprised, but she told him not to worry. “Let’s brush your teeth again. Just brush extra carefully... don’t hurry!”

“That should do it,” Mom thought, and she gave Johnny a big kiss, but her nose told her the smell was still there, and she started to wonder, “What are we going to do about this?”

Now, poor Johnny did not know what to do. His nose could sense that they needed to try something new. His parents needed to go to work and he had to go to school. “I hope no one notices,” he thought. “Bad breath is not very cool.”

But Johnny’s school friends knew at first sight that something was wrong – things did not seem right.

Johnny did not smile at them. He kept his mouth closed. He did not seem happy. His eyes did not glow.

Poor Johnny kept his distance. He played alone. He played with trucks that day – not the toy phone.

He did not ask the teacher any questions, and he hardly said anything. He sat quietly and even refused to sing!

Now, his teacher became worried. She knew something was not right. Johnny was not behaving like Johnny at all.

So, when all the children were busy playing, she called Johnny aside. She asked him how he was, and he tried with all his might not to cry. As he opened his mouth, she could sense why. His bad breath was really bad! “I’ll help you, I’ll try!” she said.

Johnny soon learned that his teacher really understood. “Bad breath can affect anyone,” she said. “Even if you’re very good... Even if you brush your teeth!”

And then she surprised him, “Even if you’re someone like me!”

Johnny could not believe what she said, and he looked right at her.

“You?” he asked. “Do you have bad breath, too?”

"Not now," she replied. "But I did... until I met the Bad Breath Fixer! Ever since I met him, my bad breath has disappeared!"

"The Bad Breath Fixer?" Johnny asked. "Is there really a Bad Breath Fixer?"

"Yes, there is!" his teacher answered. "Just like there's an eye doctor for your eyes and a foot doctor for your feet, there's a Bad Breath Fixer for your bad breath! It's good to go to an expert! I know!"

She smiled at Johnny, and he gave a big smile back.

"I will tell your parents about him, okay?" she said.

"Okay!" Johnny agreed.

That night, Johnny and his parents met the Bad Breath Fixer. He was a nice man, a doctor who was not afraid of bad breath. He asked some questions, even asked Johnny to breathe into a device, and looked at Johnny's mouth, nose, and throat.

"Johnny," he said. "It's not your fault that you have a bad breath problem".

He then explained that absolutely anyone can have bad breath for lots of reasons.

"The key," he said, "is to know what to do about it!"

"And I do!" he continued.

"Hooray!" yelled Johnny. He was very happy. His parents were very happy, too.

"Johnny, I have helped many, many people who had bad breath," the doctor said. "And I will help you, too."

He gave Johnny's parents a special rinse and gel, and a tongue scraper.

"It doesn't hurt!" he assured Johnny. "Use it regularly. You'll like it!"

The next day, Johnny was back in school, happily playing with his friends again. He smiled, he laughed, and he had lots of fun. He asked questions, and he gave answers.

Johnny gave his teacher his biggest smile and a great big hug. She was right. The Bad Breath Fixer can make bad breath go away!

"Thank You!" Johnny told her. "Thank you very much!"
